

LOUISIANIANS OVERWHELMINGLY SUPPORT FARMERS' ACCESS TO CROP PROTECTION TOOLS

The public has major concerns about the growing impact of litigation on food security and inflation

Modern Ag Alliance's inaugural sentiment survey confirms that Louisianians strongly support maintaining farmers' access to critical crop protection products like glyphosate. This support extends across party lines, with majorities of Republicans and Democrats siding with farmers on nearly every question asked. Trial lawyers, who are driving American agriculture toward a crisis by attacking farmers' tools, have extremely low levels of trust among Louisianans. Meanwhile, farmers enjoy high levels of public trust.

KEY SURVEY FINDINGS:

Louisianians strongly oppose litigation that could limit farmers' access to critical crop protection tools

96% of farmers and 66% of all Louisianians, including 67% of Republicans and 68% of Democrats, oppose litigation that could limit access to crop protection products.

94% of farmers and 75% of all Louisianians, including 70% of Republicans and 79% of Democrats, support science-based policies for crop protection tools.

Louisiana farmers overwhelmingly depend on crop protection tools to stay competitive

94% of farmers say crop protection products prevent crop loss and that restrictions on these tools would negatively impact their farms.

82% of farmers say pesticides make farming less expensive.

In Louisiana, people trust farmers, not trial lawyers

73% of Louisianians trust local farmers, including 77% of Republicans and 72% of Democrats.

Only 16% of Louisianians trust trial lawyers, including 13% of Republicans and 18% of Democrats.

Louisianians are deeply concerned that litigation will undermine domestic agricultural supply chains and U.S. food security

76% of farmers and 75% of all Louisianians, including 84% of Republicans and 73% of Democrats, worry that litigation will increase U.S. reliance on foreign suppliers, threatening U.S. food security.

Serious concern exists that litigation attacks on crop protection tools will result in higher food prices

96% of farmers and 75% of all Louisianians, including 78% of Republicans and 79% of Democrats, are concerned that litigation will lead to lower crop yields and higher food prices.

Louisianans want leaders who stand with farmers over trial lawyers

100% of farmers and 83% of all Louisianians, including 88% of Republicans and 83% of Democrats, are more likely to support leaders who stand with farmers over trial lawyers.

A BIPARTISAN MAJORITY OF LOUISIANIANS AGREE: STAND WITH FARMERS AND PREVENT A CRISIS FUELED BY TRIAL LAWYERS— ONE THAT THREATENS THEIR LIVELIHOODS AND PUTS OUR FOOD SUPPLY AT RISK.

Methodology: This survey was written and administered by Penta Group Intelligence, an independent research firm. The results are based on a representative sample of 500 online and phone interviews of Louisiana-based adults and 50 Louisianian farmers. The study also surveyed a national representative sample of 1,005 US adults and 550 additional farmers from 11 states. The study was conducted January 29 through February 18, 2025. The margin of error for the Louisiana adult population is +/-4.38.
